

JAGUAR'S ROAR

HI OJA FAMILIES!

Happy Friday! Week two has been a flurry of firsts. The students were thrilled to experience the scientific phenomenon of a solar eclipse. We heard shouts of "Wow!" and "Cool!" And "Look at the sun!" repeated over and over. Other students were fascinated by the patterns on the ground from the movement of the sun. All in all, it was a great scientific experience!

The fifth grade class and middle school classes enthusiastically cooked up a storm in the Kitchen House across the street. They created delicious cheese and fruit trays that delighted both their pallets and their learning! The students and teachers were excited to take advantage of such an engaging experience for our older learners.

The elementary students have been busy all week with various projects focusing on self-portraits. Some students drew pictures, others created portraits out of various materials, but all of the students were excited to showcase their artistic skills as they learned more about one another. Come and see their works of art!
